

Movie Night with a Twist

Movie/TV show suggestions:

1. 'Cyberbully' (2011): This TV movie follows a teenager who becomes the victim of online bullying on a social network. It is appropriate for older children and teens.
2. 'Odd Girl Out' (2005): Although this TV movie focuses on in-person bullying, it also highlights the use of instant messaging to spread hurtful rumours.
3. 'Netizens' (2018): This documentary delves into the lives of three women affected by cyber harassment, which could be a useful resource for older children and teens.
4. 'The DUFF' (2015): In this movie, a high school girl finds herself ridiculed online when she's labelled as the 'Designated Ugly Fat Friend'. It deals with the themes of online shaming and cyberbullying.
5. 'Status Update' (2018): This movie includes references to the use of social media and can be a good starting point for discussing the potential negative aspects of online interactions.
6. 'Unfriended' (2014): While this movie is a horror film and not suitable for younger children, it focuses on the consequences of online bullying and could be appropriate for older teens.
7. 'Sext Up Kids' (2012): This documentary deals with how growing up in a hyper-sexualised culture and the digital age impacts children. Parents might use it to initiate a discussion about the potential dangers of online interactions, including trolling and cyberbullying, with their older kids.
8. TV Show - 'Black Mirror: Shut Up and Dance' (2016): While not a movie, this episode from the TV series Black Mirror, suitable for older teens, delves into online trolling and its effects.
9. TV Show - 'iCarly: iMeet The First Lady' (2012): In this episode, the main characters use the internet to reconnect military families, but also encounter internet trolls and negative comments, making it a suitable discussion point for younger audiences.